From a Great Pre-historic Forest.

The most magnificent and largest frag ment of polished siliclified would ever brought from the Petrified Forest of Arizona to the eastern seaboard was placed on axhibition yesterday by Tiffany & Co., the Union square jeweller. The specimen is just to the helt of the visitor entaring the store by the Fifteenth street door. To an Evening Sun representa-tive Mr. George F. Kunz, the mineralogist of the firm, imparted the following intereing particulars concerning the specimen. It is a perfect section from a gigantic fossil tree trunk, 3 feet to beight and 41 and 34 inches in greatest length and breadth across the top, although entirely of stone, weighing al together 4,200 pounds; the tree form is per fectly preserved. The bank can be readily distinguished, as also a knot hole showing where, at some prehistoric time, the aged tree, while still living, lost one of its limbs. In color the specimen is a dark roo or brown on the unpolished portion. On the table-like top, however, where the trunk has been out across transversely, the skilled hand of the polisher has been at work and the glassy sur face exhibits the most beautiful shades of red carmine, and crimson, as well as various tinta of yellow, orange, brown, light green, pur-ple, gray, white, and black. In some places these colors blend imperceptibly into each other, while in others they are distinct markings or blotobes upon the general rich red background. Another thing also very interesting is the distinctness of the annual rings of the tree. Under the microscope also, the entire original texture of the wood may be studied down to the minutest cells From this study it is thought that the priginal tree was some species of the Sequoia-the giant tree of California. The exact locality from which the spectrum was taken is a point distant about twenty-four miles from Helbrock, Apadle county, Ariz. Here is an area of over 1,000 acres, worn away by the action of the elements into improverable guilles and guiches, in every one of which are the petrified remains of hundreds of GINGER ALE AND SARSAPARILLA.

We have again put in operation apparatus of the newest pattern for the production and bottling of carbonated drinks, which we are now manufacturing of the very best quality, and which can be had at any of the saloons or grocery stores in the city. We solicit a trial.

An up-town lady who could not understand the difficulty had a plumber come around and tear up the floor to search for a leak in the waterpipes, and was all the more confounded when none was found.
